A primeira temporada de 2019 começou no novo ambiente que deu origem ao atual Toronto Flames FC, que participa pela primeira vez do Hockey Canada na pré-temporada, conquistando o acesso à Copa Confiança dos playoffs da Copa do Canadá e da Copa Stanley de Futebol de 2017 para enfrentar a equipe do Canadá na Copa do Mundo FIFA de 2018.

A equipe terminou o campeonato como vice-campeão.

O goleiro Steve Carrancourt permaneceu no gelo mesmo após a temporada devido a uma lesão no ligamento colateral direito, que não foi reparado ainda. Apesar do goleiro ficar inativo durante todo o treino, ele marcou vários gols durante toda a temporada, incluindo o gol de empate de 2 a 2 contra o Toronto Maple Leafs em 30 de outubro de 2018 e o gol de vitória de 2 a 2 sobre o Detroit Red Wings em 26 de outubro de 2018.

O Flames entrou em campo no dia 29 de setembro de 2019 para disputar o restante da temporada na Premier League.

Hiking has been a large part of my life since before I can even remember.

I've hiked thousands of miles in all sorts of terrain.

From the deserts of southern California, to the pine forests of Colorado, I've hiked in just about every climate and place! Part of what I enjoy about hiking is the competitive feeling I get from it.

From time to time, I like to race my hiking partners (or myself) to see how much faster I am at getting to a given objective.

This element kind of makes it seem like hiking is a sport.

But is hiking a sport? Despite the competitive nature that you may have with yourself or your hiking buddies, hiking is not truly a sport.

But why? After much research, we've come up with a detailed answer as to why hiking isn't a sport and what you could do instead to combine your love of competition and the outdoors!

Read on for curious facts and useful advice.

What is hiking? Hiking is just a leisure activity.

And even though it's a leisure activity, it often could be quite tiresome.

Similarly to sport, hiking is undoubtedly an activity involving physical exertion in mountainous areas.

Just think about the last time you walked on a steep trail.

We think that hiking is walking (often it's a long walk) in a natural environment over a wide variety of distances.

The intent behind it can be wide ranging too!

People hike for the pleasure of being outside.

They hike for fitness (that physical exertion is invigorating) and promoting good cardiovascular health.

We have an extensive article on the psychological benefits of hiking too.

They hike to access beautiful places that can't be seen from the seat of a car.

They even hike in order to spend multiple nights in wild and remote locations! And as you might now, hiking every day isn't bad.

In fact, it's just the opposite! Part of what draws people to hiking as well as sports is the community that is built around each activity.

The main thing about the hiking community is that it is much more supportive than many sports communities.

This is due to the very low competitive nature of hiking, which is another big differentiating feature between hiking and sport! What is sport? What's the official definition of sport? The official definition of sport is that it's an activity involving physical exertion.

But hiking is the same, right? It takes quite a physical exertion.

And they both can occur on a hiking trail.

But while hiking can sometimes be competitive, sports are always competitive.

It is characterized by competitive events.

An individual or a team competes against other.

And there are rules organized by a governing body.

Such a governing body could be a federation, for example.

Whether you're engaged in racing or in a game, there are clear winners and losers at the end of the day, participating in those competitive events.

As we talked about earlier, there is always a regulatory organization that makes the rules and validates the outcomes of competitions.

There have to be rules and judges in order to keep the integrity of the sport intact.

Think about different incidents in sports across time.

There have been examples where athletes use unfair advantages in order to gain an upper hand over their opponents.

Had there not been regulator organizations to enforce rules on cheating, these athletes would not have been caught for cheating! This is extremely important when defining what sports are, as there has to be a large degree of integrity when dealing with competitive participants.

It makes things fair, which encourages people to continue to participate ethically.

Last but not least, every sport involves an important amount of physical exertion and skill.

Is hiking a sport? Since hiking is an activity involving physical exertion and often - significant physical effort (especially winter hiking and mountaineering at high altitude), we might easily confuse it with sport.

That's why it's often considered a sport.

But a key aspect here is that hiking lacks competition.

To qualify as a sport, an activity has to be something that you can organize competitions (competitive events) around.

While you can definitely have informal competitions with your friends on hiking trails can have, there aren't organizations that regulate and conduct hiking competitions.

That is why hiking is not a sport.

At least not officially.

Official organizations are important because they establish the rules for competition and, more importantly, verify competition outcomes.

This ensures the integrity of the competitions, as official organizations track and provide officiants to competition events! Hiking is defined by walking in natural environments and usually on dirt footpaths.

With that being said, of course, hiking is different from walking.

While you can absolutely time yourself to track how fast you are and compare that time against your past times or your partners, we think that because you can't verify the times, fair competition isn't possible with hiking.

So, is hiking considered a sport - no.

There's little competition in hiking.

Crucial differences between hiking and sport It's true that hiking is often considered a sport.

There are some key aspects that differentiate hiking from sport and vice versa.

Both involve significant physical activity.

For example, boxing is a real sport.

Even though they both require physical training, the biggest difference between hiking and sports is the regulatory nature of sports.

Sport hiking doesn't exist yet, because there isn't an organization that dictates the rules or enforces them.

Plus, there's a certain level of skill involved in sport.

For hiking competitions (an individual or a team competes against others) that do exist, the honor system is the main way that hikers keep the integrity of the competition.

That isn't something that many serious competitors want to depend on, as people tend to do things that serve their own self interests.

This is especially apparent in real sports, as there have been many cases of people cheating in order to get the upper edge to win a competition.

With that being said, hiking often could be a competitive sport. Unofficially.

Why some people consider hiking as a sport? Some people confuse hiking with sport because they have small competitions between friends on the hiking trails.

And they both involve physical activity.

Sometimes those even qualify as adventure racing.

You can make up all sorts of competitive games while hiking.

For example - getting to the end of a section the fastest, competing for the most miles hiked over a given amount of time, spotting the most of a specific type of animal, and so many other ways to keep your mind and body engaged while hiking.

In addition, people confuse hiking as a sport because often hiking clubs advertise organized hiking events (and similar events).

Again, those are just events, even if sometimes they could have a competitive character.

But again, these competitions can't be verified by anyone, which means that hiking can't be a sport.

It doesn't meet the technical definition.

Most sports require competitiveness that's officially regulated.

Just recall the official definition of sport.

Which sport is similar to hiking? There are many similar events that are sports.

And they all resemble hiking in some way.

Ultra-marathon races (and similar kinds of adventure racing) are considered sports.

Mountain biking too.

In fact, I've participated in a mountain biking race recently.

That's because often they are regulated by official organizations.

Most sports such as the above mentioned are close to hiking, because competitors cover many miles over a long period of time, usually taking a few days to complete.

Often, the terrain is mountainous.

Ultra-marathon runners often camp out while racing, as the distances that they run are far above what is possible for someone to complete in one day.

This makes it really similar to hiking, especially backpacking, as runners spend multiple days on trail during the race.

Famous hiking competitions and races An unofficial hiking competition, that is close to sport but isn't, due to the lack of regulations, is achieving the Triple Crown of Hiking.

To achieve this accomplishment, hikers must complete all three of the major national scenic trails in the US: the Pacific Crest Trail, the Continental Divide Trail, and the Appalachian Trail.

People who complete all three hikes can unofficially claim the title of being a triple crown hiker.

There are more people that have gone into outer space that have achieved the Triple Crown of Hiking!

Why aren't those considered sports? Because nothing regulates them.

A prominent example of an ultra-marathon that mixes hiking with sport is the Four Deserts Series of Races.

The Four Deserts takes competitors on a 7-day experience of racing across various deserts around the world.

Racing takes place over 7 days total, but will take longer as that doesn't include travel times.

The Four Deserts Race Series is regulated by RacingThePlanet Limited.

In order to take part in this monumental race, competitors must qualify by providing a doctor's physical proving that you are in healthy enough condition to participate in this grueling race.

Outside of that, you must have the determination and grit to complete a race through some of the most austere terrain on the planet! Trail Running Trail running is a great way to combine hiking with sport.

Races like the Four Deserts Race Series is an extreme example of trail running racing.

There's even some races on the Appalachian trail.

But you don't need to go out and complete that behemoth of a race to enjoy trail running.

You can sign up for smaller races that combine the elements of hiking with sport.

The shortest races you can sign up for are about 5 kilometers and can be done all over the world.

With that being said, hiking the Appalachian trail, for instance, can't be considered running or trail running.

Runners love to participate in trail running because it combines the serenity of being outside that hiking possesses with the competitive nature of sport.

So, bottom line is that trail running and adventure racing could be considered sports.

Final Thoughts While hiking does have the potential to become a sport, it's not fair or accurate to call it a sport right now.

Sports have regulatory organizations that define and enforce competition rules to ensure safe and fair competition between athletes.

Trail running and ultra-marathon racing is very similar to hiking in that both get people racing outside.

They are defined as sports, as you must register to race and adhere to rules in order to compete.

Recordando a Paul Auster: Um Homem e Sua Obra

Eu me lembro do primeiro encontro com Paul Auster. Foi bwin ski jumping 1987, eu era um jovem escritor trabalhando bwin ski jumping uma livraria bwin ski jumping Berkeley e Paul apareceu bwin ski jumping outra livraria por perto para ler do livro "In the Country of Last Things". Parece-me provável que isso tenha sido a primeira vez que uma grande editora o enviou bwin ski jumping uma turnê de livros pelos EUA. "The New York Trilogy" foi publicado bwin ski jumping capa dura por uma pequena editora chamada Sun & Moon Press; até esse ponto, ele era um poeta e tradutor. Paul assinou um livro para mim. Nunca lhe contei disso.

Eu me lembro de que, quando "Music of Chance" foi publicado alguns anos depois, senti que havia lido algo escrito por um escritor que exercia uma liberdade absoluta para fazer o que lhe interessava e que, nesse momento, era o novelista americano que mais desejava ser.

Eu me lembro de que, quando mais de uma década depois eu havia retornado a Brooklyn e publiquei livros ambientados bwin ski jumping Brooklyn, fui quase inescapavelmente introduzido a Paul. Ele me acolheu bwin ski jumping bwin ski jumping companhia com graça e gentileza corteses. Pouco tempo depois, fui convidado para bwin ski jumping casa para conhecer Siri e bwin ski jumping filha e beber vinho e para responder aos delicados interrogatórios de Paul sobre minha vida de leitura e escrita. Quando olho para minhas cópias de seus livros, acho que mantive notas desse tempo dentro de seus capas de dancinhos; sempre estava tão entusiasmado bwin ski jumping receber uma de suas cartas manuscritas. Paul nunca se switchou para o email.

Um constelação de mestres

Eu me lembro de que, bwin ski jumping uma única passagem, bwin ski jumping uma festa de Natal, Paul apresentou-me facilmente a um escalão de amigos famosos – DeLillo e Rushdie, sim, mas também Richard Price e Art Spiegelman, dois escritores nova-iorquinos cujo trabalho reverenciei quando jovem e que aquela noite me disseram que tinham lido meus livros da Brooklyn e me fizeram sentir que tinha feito uma impressão neles bwin ski jumping troca. Aqueles momentos na casa de Paul e Siri poderiam ter sido um dia de formatura para mim.

Eu me lembro de que senti que estava retribuindo o favor quando consegui fornecer a Paul alguns experimentos que, na época, parecia que ele estava muito tímido ou apreensivo para providenciar para si mesmo. O primeiro foi quando ele disse que sempre ouviu que era impossível fazer uma reserva no Peter Luger steak house bwin ski jumping Williamsburg e nunca havia ido. Levei-o lá para um almoço bwin ski jumping mesa, o que foi fácil – ele ficou tão feliz como se eu tivesse executado um peça de mágica de palco para ele. O segundo foi quando o New York Mets se mudaram do Shea Stadium para o Citi Field. Paul parecia estar perdido, como se seu time tivesse viajado para outro planeta. Conseguir ingressos e leva-lo a um jogo de dia e sentamo-nos juntos e observamos o Mets perder, que era uma tradição.

Eu me lembro de que Paul concordou bwin ski jumping ser entrevistado por mim para um livro de jovens escritores encontrando escritores mais velhos, mas apenas com cautela. Nossa conversa naquele dia, enquanto minha gravadora rodava, foi incongruente. Paul estava obscurecido e dependente de generalidades. Ele havia começado a receber algumas cotas, como escritores às vezes fazem no meio de uma longa carreira. Ele havia escrito dois livros
